NOTIFICATION CONCERNING PEDIATRIC PREVENTIVE HEALTH CARE

River Ridge Pediatrics strives to provide quality care and recommends age appropriate well child care. Pediatric preventive health care (a "well child care visit") typically consists of age appropriate screenings, tracking of development and growth, immunizations, a physical exam, risk assessments, and health education. These visits help us provide guidance and may detect medical problems or developmental differences.

Please be aware that your health insurance may not recognize discussion of significant problems or additional medical diagnoses as part of the preventive health visit. If an illness or abnormality is encountered or a preexisting problem is addressed during the process of performing the preventive medical service, the service will be billed to your insurance company; and a co-pay or additional charges may be charged by your insurance company. Questions concerning your health benefits should be directed to your insurance plan.
